

The FCC should leave Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law alone. This law allows me to spend time with my children at night without the constant ringing of the phone from people trying to sell me something that I don't need nor want.